Introduction

The International Peace Information Service (IPIS) and the Omega Research Foundation (Omega) have undertaken a comprehensive review of one of China's largest state-owned companies.

Norinco – known formally as China North Industries Group Corporation (CNGC) was established in 1999 and consists of at least 46 member units which then have several subordinate companies, joint ventures and associate companies. CNGC's main purpose is to research, develop and manufacture weapons and military equipment for the Chinese armed forces. To accomplish this primary task CNGC combines military research objectives with civil development and production enterprises and often the two are difficult to separate. CNGC is also involved in other industries such as mining and petroleum (often overseas) as well as the associated processing industries – which provide raw materials for CNGC and other Chinese companies as well as giving China and CNGC access to international markets.

Over the decades CNGC and many of its subsidiaries have established joint ventures or licensed manufacturing agreements with various Western companies to manufacture civilian products which have then been incorporated in the military and/or law enforcement products of CNGC. This is of particular concern to the USA and the EU, both who both brought in arms embargoes against China following the 1999 Tiananmen Square massacre. In 1989 the USA suspended "all licenses and approvals to export defense articles and defense services from the United States to the People's Republic of China"<sup>1</sup> and the EU stated that there should be an "interruption ... of military cooperation and an arms embargo on trade in arms with China".

This working paper uses publicly available sources and attempts to unpick the structure of CNGC, listing its Member Units and the associated subsidiaries, joint ventures and associate companies. We believe that this information shows the complex interaction between the civilian and military sections with supposedly civilian enterprises manufacturing equipment or components for the military, or providing them with raw materials. We hope this will make policy makers and export control departments more aware of the issue of exporting equipment and technology to China.

Our research has uncovered several subsidiaries that we previously thought had no link to CNGC. However, the list is still incomplete and we would welcome any additions or clarifications you may have.

Note: This is arms embargo is interpreted by EU Member States and does not prohibit the export of all equipment with a military application – see SIPRI 'EU arms embargo on China', http://www.sipri.org/databases/embargoes/eu\_arms\_embargoes/china

CHINA NORTH INDUSTRIES GROUP CORPORATION (CNGC) 中国兵器工业集团公司

1. Purpose of CNGC

CHINA NORTH INDUSTRIES GROUP CORPORATION also known as the Norinco Group is a state owned enterprise and forms the main body within China for research and development of weapons and equipment for the Chinese armed forces as well as the production thereof. To accomplish this CNGC combines military with civil R&D and production. The structure of CNGC is highly complex and includes at least 46 large member units, and each of these has many different subordinate units. Included are research institutes, production facilities, trading companies, mining companies... CNGC is also involved in other sectors including the extraction industries, manufacturing and petroleum. (<http://en.norincogroup.com.cn/html/aboutus/briefofng/>)

Over the decades CNGC and many of its subsidiaries have established joint ventures or licensed manufacturing agreements with various Western companies to manufacture civilian products which are incorporated in the military and/or law enforcement products of CNGC. In its turn CNGC and its subsidiaries have offered many foreign clients technology transfer arrangements.

Since 27 June 1989 the European Union has an arms embargo in force against China (Declaration of European Council, Madrid, 27.6.1989):

"In the present circumstances, the European Council thinks it necessary to adopt the following measures: - interruption by the Member States of the Community of military cooperation and an embargo on trade in arms with China;"

This has not stopped the transfer of military technology nor the creation of joint ventures with CNGC subsidiaries.

2. Brief History of CNGC

CNGC was established in 1999 as the main R&D and production facility for the Chinese armed forces.

In 2011 the China Internet Information Centre stated that CNGC owns 11 public companies: Lining Huajin Chemicals, NORINCO, Sichuan Nitrocell Co., Ltd., Changchun Yidong Clutch Co., Ltd., Huabei New Huaguang Information Materials Co., Ltd., Inner Mongolia North Hauler Joint Stock Co., Ltd., China North Optical-Electrical Technology Co., Ltd., Lingyun Industrial Co., Ltd., Jinxi Axle Co., Ltd., Baotou Beifang Chuangye Co., Ltd., and AKM Industrial Ltd. (<http://companies.china.org.cn/trade/company/128.html>) (accessed 13 June 2011)

3. Member Units

The structure of CNGC is highly complex and includes at least 46 large member units, and each of these has many different subordinate units. Included are research institutes, production facilities, trading companies, mining companies... The member units are distributed in 18 provinces, autonomous regions and municipalities in China, including Beijing, Shaanxi, Gansu, Shanxi, Hebei, Inner Mongolia, Liaoning, Jilin, Heilongjiang, Shandong, Henan, Hunan, Hubei and so on.
